

DIOCESE OF SODOR AND MAN

MARRIAGE OF PERSONS FROM OUTSIDE THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC AREA

Guidance on the marriage of persons from outside the EEA has been issued by the House of Bishops. The guidance is in terms applicable only to England, and the Bishop of Sodor and Man has issued the following guidance to clergy in the diocese of Sodor and Man in terms closely based on that issued by the House of Bishops, but so modified as to apply to the Isle of Man.

The Church of England, as the established church in the Isle of Man, has the privilege and the responsibility of solemnizing the marriages of all those who wish to marry according to the rites of the Church of England, provided that they are eligible to marry.¹ Unlike other denominations and religious bodies in England who conduct marriages, the Church of England, in addition to conducting its own marriages, also conducts its own marriage preliminaries in the form of banns and common and special licences.

The House of Bishops affirms the right of those who wish to do so to enter into the honourable estate of holy matrimony, intending a permanent and lifelong union, for better for worse, till death do them part.² As a convenient shorthand, this paper refers to such a marriage as a “genuine marriage”.

Recent experience has demonstrated that there are those who seek to abuse both the system of ecclesiastical marriage preliminaries and the office of Holy Matrimony by contracting marriages solely for the purpose of obtaining an immigration advantage. The parties to these marriages have had no intention of living together as husband and wife and the marriages in question have often been arranged by organised, criminal gangs. As a convenient shorthand, this paper refers to such a marriage as a “sham marriage”.

In this paper, the term “non-EEA national” is used to mean anyone who is not a national of a country that belongs to the European Economic Area (EEA)³ or a British citizen. Non-EEA nationals might well wish to enter into genuine marriages. It is perfectly lawful for them to do so and they have the same rights to marry in the Church of England as British citizens. The Church of England does not wish to stand in the way of any couple who wish to enter into a genuine marriage and will support them and encourage them in their wish to do so.

The House of Bishops is, however, clear that the office of Holy Matrimony must not be misused by those who have no intention of contracting a genuine marriage but merely a sham marriage.

² See Canon B 30, paragraph 1

³ In addition to the United Kingdom, the following countries are members of the EEA: Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Italy, Latvia, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Republic of Ireland, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland.

The purpose of this paper is, therefore, to provide guidance and direction from the Bishops to the clergy and to those responsible for the grant of common licences – the Vicar General, the Diocesan Registrar and surrogates – to prevent the contracting of sham marriages in the Church of England.

Guidance for the clergy

In the case of any intended marriage where a party is a non-EEA national, the clergy should not offer to publish banns; instead the couple should be directed to apply to the Diocesan Registrar (not to a surrogate) for a common licence in accordance with the arrangements outlined in section 9.3 of Anglican Marriage in the Isle of Man: a Guide to the Law for Clergy.

The active involvement of the parochial clergy is of central importance in the making of an application for a common licence. This is because it is they who will usually be in the best position to form a view about the genuineness or otherwise of an intended marriage. Before a common licence can be issued for the marriage of a non-EEA national, the Diocesan Registrar will require a letter from the minister who it is intended should conduct the marriage, stating that he or she has met both parties (preferably on a number of occasions and at least once in their own home⁴) and, having discussed the marriage with them, is satisfied that the intended marriage is genuine and that he or she is content to conduct the marriage. If a cleric is not satisfied that the marriage is genuine he or she must make that clear to the Diocesan Registrar.

Should a couple resist applying for a common licence and say that they insist on their banns being published the clergy should proceed as follows —

- The matter should be reported without delay to the Diocesan Registrar.
- The cleric concerned should – in addition to the usual application for banns form – require verifiable evidence of the right of the couple in question to have their banns published in the parish.
- Where the right asserted to have banns published is a right based on residence in the parish the couple should be required to produce documentary evidence clearly demonstrating the residence in the parish of the party or parties who it is said reside there. This should normally take the form of a driving licence showing the person as resident at the address in question and official correspondence to the person at that address in the form of utility bills, bank statements or correspondence from the Isle of Man Government or a local authority. Original documents, not copies, should be required. The cleric concerned should take and retain photocopies of any documents that are produced. If he or she is concerned about the authenticity of any documents, the Diocesan Registrar should be consulted.
- Clergy should apply their own local knowledge. If an unknown address is given, clergy should discover whether the address exists and whether it is a residential address. Clergy should arrange to visit the couple at the address in question. (If clergy have concerns about their safety in making such visits, they should consider going accompanied.)
- Banns should not be published unless the cleric concerned is satisfied that the right of the couple to have their banns published in the parish has been established. The advice of the Diocesan Registrar should be obtained if there is any doubt as to this.

Clergy are reminded of their duty under Canon B 30 “to explain to the two persons who desire to be married the Church’s doctrine of marriage ... and the need for God’s grace in order that they may discharge aright their obligations as married persons.” Clergy must see both parties to the intended marriage before the day of the wedding in order to carry out this duty. If the intended marriage is not a genuine marriage but only a sham marriage this may become apparent during meetings with the couple. If a couple decline to attend meetings for the purpose of giving the instruction required by the Canon the cleric concerned will be prevented from carrying out his or her canonical duty. In those circumstances he or she should inform the couple that the marriage may not proceed until such time as the duty has been carried out.

Clergy should be aware that they are not obliged to agree to conduct a marriage at any date of the couple's choosing. The date of a wedding is a matter for agreement between the couple and the cleric concerned. The clergy should not normally agree to conduct marriages at short notice. Adequate time for the marriage preparation referred to above needs to be allowed for. A request that a marriage take place without proper preparation and at short notice should be treated with considerable caution and may be a cause for suspecting that the marriage is a sham marriage.

While incumbents are under a legal duty to conduct the marriages of their parishioners, that duty does not extend to conducting the marriages of persons who assert that they are parishioners but are in fact not; nor does it extend to marrying persons in pursuance of a criminal enterprise. The view of the House of Bishops is that a cleric who delays or declines to publish banns or to conduct a marriage as a result of complying with the above guidance would not, for that reason alone, be guilty of misconduct under the Clergy Discipline Measure 2003 nor likely to be held to be in breach of the common law, or statutory, rights of others.

Any cleric who thinks that he or she has been subjected to threats or any other improper pressure in connection with an intended marriage should immediately report the matter to the police, the Archdeacon and the Diocesan Registrar.

For background and more detailed information on sham marriages, including factors that may indicate that intended marriage is a sham marriage, the clergy should refer to Guidance for Clergy: Foreign Nationals seeking to marry in the Isle of Man issued by the Isle of Man Passport and Immigration Office, a copy of which is being issued with this paper.
